

Free Conferences Coming to a City Near You

Join us for rich and meaningful professional development, including strategies for implementing new standards in English language arts, math, science, health and physical education at our free EngageOK education conferences in July.

We're taking EngageOK on the road this year to help reduce travel costs for you and your districts. Each conference will open at 8 a.m. with a general session, followed by breakout sessions throughout the day until 3 p.m.
