* Poverty is measured by using 48 thresholds that vary by family size and number of children within the family and age of householder.

To determine whether a person is in poverty, one compares the total income of that person's family with the threshold appropriate for that family.

If the total income is less than the threshold, then the person is considered in poverty, together with every member of his or her family.

Institutionalized people, people in military quarters, people living in college dormitories, and unrelated individuals under 15 years old are excluded from the calculation of poverty rates.

Percentages represent the percent of all occurrences in a particular category.

¹ The agencies represented here are only those that are funded by DMHSAS, either a state-operated facility or a private, nonprofit which contracts with DMHSAS.

² Persons are only counted once each year regardless of how many times they receive treatment (unduplicated count). Persons must be admitted to a DMHSAS-funded agency and have received a service during the year. Adults admitted to a DMHSAS-funded mental health or substance abuse treatment agency must meet the eligibility criteria of 200% or less of the federal poverty guidelines. There are no financial eligibility criteria for children or domestic violence/sexual assault service recipients.

Percentages represent the percent of all occurrences in a particular category.

1 Serious Mental Illness (SMI) is a term used by the federal and state governments to identify the priority population of persons, 18 years or older, who have been identified at any time as having a serious mental illness. A serious mental illness is defined as a diagnosable mental, behavioral or emotional disorder of sufficient duration that meet criteria specified within the DSM-IV, with impairment in specific areas of functioning.

2 Persons are only counted once each year regardless of how many times they receive treatment (unduplicated count). Persons must be admitted to a DMHSAS-funded agency and have received a service during the year. Adults admitted to a DMHSAS-funded mental health or substance abuse treatment agency must meet the eligibility criteria of 200% or less of the federal poverty guidelines. There are no financial eligibility criteria for children or domestic violence/sexual assault service recipients.

3 Classifications of cases treated in the state of Oklahoma according to the criteria listed.

4 Due to reporting errors, total cases by race are slightly different from total cases.

1 In 2004 the calculation method was changed from an annual rate to a class year rate to better reflect the dropout rate in high schools.

2 High school graduation rate is based on the 9th grade enrollment in order to track class growth, and thus can exceed 100%.
